"FATE."
Love me now while I am living,
Do not wait till I am gone.
And then chisel it in marble
Warm Love-words on ice-cold stone;
If you're tender thoughts about me,
Why not whisper them to me?
Don't you know I would make me happy
And as glad as I could be?

So, if you love me any—
If it's but a tiny bit,
Why not tell me now while living,
I can own and treasure it;
For if you wait till I am sleeping,
Ne'er to waken here again,
There'll be walls of earth between us
And I couldn't hear you then.

The tender words unspoken,
The letter never sent,
The long forgotten messages,
The wealth of love unspent,
For these a heart is yearning,
Through the negligence of Fate—
Act today while life's lamp is burning,
Tomorrow may be too late.

Clergymen Have Small Families

LONDON, Aug. 21.—Clergymen longer have large families, the most of the Neo-Malthusian Birth Control society were told by Professor Maltus at a recent conference. Thirty years ago the clergy were reckoned among the most prolific members of the community, and rightly regarded as breeders; but today read sweepers, laborers and people of that class live in large families, while clerical families consist of only one or two children. The Professor declared also that the species of animal and plant that exercise unchecked its natural power of reproduction, would in a few years completely overrun the earth and destroy other forms of life.

DECREASE IN IDLE POLISH

WARSAW, Aug. 24.—For every 100 Polish workmen employed in 1921, 120 are working today. The textile industry and printing are developing with conspicuous success. For every 100 workmen employed in these trades in 1921, there are now respectively 136 and 133 men at work.

However, Polish industry is not yet completely restored, and compared to 1913 only 75 per cent of the total number of workmen is employed.

These figures are from the Chief Statistical Office of the government.
